Following are recent reports from Arkansas' tourism industry.

Travel advisor promotes heritage tourism

Heritage tourism is more relevant and important to Arkansas than ever, according to travel advisors. But just what is it, and how can Arkansas cities capitalize on it? During the 2021 Arkansas Governor's Conference on Tourism on March 3, Cheryl Hargrove with Hargrove International Inc. discussed "Heritage Tourism: More Relevant than Ever." (March 3)

Legendary Fort Smith restaurant owner dies

Tom Calderera Jr., the popular restaurant owner and community leader who, along with his family, likely catered thousands of weddings, reunions, wakes and community events in the Fort Smith area, has died. He was 90. Calderera opened Taliano's Italian Restaurant at 14th and B streets in Fort Smith with partner Jim Cadelli in 1970. The restaurant was in the renovated Sparks Mansion built in 1887, which is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. (Feb. 14)

Fayetteville first to be named a 'Bike City'

The city of Fayetteville is the first U.S. city to be named a Bike City by the Union Cycliste Internationale (UCI), a world governing body of cycling, according to a news release. Experience Fayetteville said the city joins cities and regions across the globe, such as Copenhagen and Paris that have previously received the designation because of their commitment to developing cycling at all levels, from elite competition to the use of bicycles for leisure and transportation. # Arkansas Tourism Ticker: Tourism industry ends 2020 with significant losses

Arkansas' travel and tourism industry, which was enjoying more than a decade of growth, posted double-digit percentage declines in key categories in 2020 because of the COVID-19 pandemic that hit the state in March 2020.

Arkansas' 2% tourism tax revenue in 2020 was $13.61 million, down 22.7% compared with the $17.608 million in 2019. The full-year number is a slight improvement compared with the 24.9% decline through August and the 30.4% decline through June. The tax was up 7.2% in 2019. February revenue of $1.366 million set a new monthly record for the tax.

January-December hospitality tax collections among 17 cities surveyed for the Arkansas Tourism Ticker fell 18% compared with 2019. The biggest hit was in lost revenue from hotel collections. The decline is an improvement compared with the 20.6% decline between January and August, and a 21.9% decline between January and June. Total tourism tax revenue in the cities was up 5.2% in 2019.

The tourism industry entered 2020 following a robust 2019, and for the first two months of 2020, collections in the 17 cities were up 3.8%, the state's 2% tourism tax revenue was up 13.2%, and the average monthly job numbers were down only 0.04%.

Collections of Arkansas' 2% tourism set a new record in 2019 and hospitality tax collections among 17 Arkansas cities surveyed for the Arkansas Tourism ticker topped the $53 million mark in 2019. The year marked the fifth consecutive year of growth as measured by the Arkansas Tourism Ticker.

The Arkansas Tourism Ticker is managed by Talk Business & Politics, and sponsored by the Arkansas Hospitality Association. The ticker uses the following three measurements to review the health of the state's tourism industry.

- Hospitality tax collections – prepared food tax and lodging tax – of 17 Arkansas cities (cities listed below along with collections for each city);

- Tourism sector employment numbers as reported by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics; and

- Collections of Arkansas' 2% statewide tourism tax. TBP
